Having grown from the fertile grounds of Oxford's live folk music scene The Knights of Mentis' released their first full-length album New Pound Coin in winter 2013.

Over the last two years the band have been a firm favourite throughout the festival circuit, playing triumphant sets at Green Man, Wilderness (Folk Guild Stage), Truck and have been chosen by BBC 6 Music's Steve Lamacq Show as a "highlight of Cornbury Festival" where they performed 4 sets including a slot for Bob Harris's WBBC filmed session.

The acoustic nine-piece have refined their style and songs as much on the stage as in late night jams and open sessions, often inviting other acts to sit in with them. One rare 3am unscheduled opportunity at Cornbury last year saw The Knights and several members of Squeeze jiggling along into the small hours.

Their enthusiasm for performance is reflected in their recordings, choosing to record much of the album live in the studio in order to capture the energy and dynamism of their live show. New Pound Coin was co-produced by the band with Oxford music legend Nick Moor bath at Evolution Studios.

The virtuoso line up delivers a distinct and flavoursome brew of Americana, country, folk, and roots music, taking inspiration from artists such as Gillian Welch, Old Crow Medicine Show and The Band; however you can also hear influences from great British bands such as Pink Floyd and Led Zeppelin.

Peter Graham, Jed Dale and Keith Birnie's vocals deliver homespun lyrics inspired by "things we've felt and seen, places and people we know", in rich three-part harmonies.

The Knights of Mentis have received airplay from BBC Radio Oxford Introducing, Roots & Fusion on Pure FM, FolkRise and multiple Americana shows in the UK and US, as well as critical praise from the likes of Americana UK, Nightshift Magazine, fRoots and Fatea Records.
